

GARNER RESOLUTION BEATEN

Result Of Vote Is 272 Vs. 144

Action of "Lame-Duck" Session of House of Representatives Makes Possibility of Special Session In March Near Certainty

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—John Nance Garner's resolution to submit the repeal of the 18th amendment to the several states failed in the "Lame Duck" session of the national House of Representatives today.

The vote was:
Against, 272;
For, 144.

A roll call was taken over dry opposition. Forty minute debates preceded the roll call.

The result means that a special session of the next Congress will be a certainty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Leaders on both sides were claiming victory at noon today when the House convened and prepared to take a vote on the Garner resolution for repeal of the 18th amendment.

The fate of the resolution admittedly was in doubt because of absentees and the large number of "Lame Ducks," exercising their last legislative prerogatives, who declined to make known their views in advance.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A Lame-Duck Congress—probably the last of the species—came back to Washington today to confront a set of circumstances and problems unparalleled in the history of the republic.

With only three months to live, the dying session of the 72nd Congress faces a staggering array of legislative challenges. And with control divided, and split into factions, as it is, the better is general that the session will fail to accomplish its major objectives, necessitating an extra session of the new 73rd Congress soon after March 4.

CONDITIONS TENSE
Probably no American Congress ever convened under more extraordinary circumstances than did the 72nd today.

Outside the legislative halls, in the broad plaza and throughout the grounds, were hundreds of extra police—mobilized to protect the Capitol against the invasion of several thousand so-called "hunger marchers" who converged upon Washington over the week-end demanding federal relief for the homeless and the jobless. The invasion was frankly Communist in origin.

But uppermost in every member's mind was prohibition—the hot potato of American politics for the past dozen years.

Militantly confident as a result of the sweeping anti-prohibition gains in the November election, the wets are determined to force, if possible, repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of beer. Instead act to legalize beer before the fourth of March. A resolution repealing the 18th amendment was the first order of business today. A year ago such an undertaking would have been considered the height of folly.

WETS CONFIDENT
Yet so radical has been the shift in public sentiment, as revealed in the November election, that the wets were jubilantly confident today of their ability to beat prohibition. And the dries were, to say the least, apprehensive.

Behind the prohibition issue ranks a formidable array of other problems confronting this session: (1) Adequate farm relief, to which the new incoming Democratic administration is pledged in a variety of ways. (2) Balancing the federal budget.

APPROVAL OF FUND CHANGE IS EXPECTED

Commission Approves Resolution of Auditor for Poor Fund

$7,500 NOW SOUGHT

Money Taken From Auto License Fund

Approval of the State Relief commission for transfer of $7,500 from the Auto License and Gas Tax fund to the Poor relief fund was expected Monday after the Pickaway-co commissioners acted favorably on a resolution presented by Auditor Cliff M. White asking the allocation.

No protest was made when a hearing was conducted Monday at 10 a. m.

According to the resolution this step is necessary as the Poor Fund is already overdrawn in the amount of $475.55 and with other obligations arising every week it is necessary that some action be taken in order to tide over the fund and make up its deficits until the February distribution.

"GAS" FUND HUGE

Figures in the resolution show that at the present time the License Tax and Gasoline tax fund has a balance of $87,429.87, and that after the necessary obligations have been paid at the close of the year a balance of approximately $40,000 will still be left in the fund.

Commissioners John W. Hay, Marvin H. Dreisbach and Edgar W. Beatty in adopting the resolution said that it was necessary that this transfer be made in order to prevent the issuance of bonds to hold up the poor funds.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—A Butler-co delegation ran into a stone wall today when it came to Columbus to ask the state relief commission for help in borrowing $32,646.08 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"I don't see how the request can be granted," declared Major E. O. Braught, executive secretary of the commission.

Other counties have been required to make use of all local means of raising relief funds before appealing to the R. F. C. and Butler-co has not complied, said Braught.

A hearing scheduled for 10 a. m. was delayed until 2:30 p. m. when other more pressing conferences demanded attention of the commission.

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the commission, and his colleagues will be the final court in deciding the appeal.

Butler-co, Braught said, has refused to issue Pringle-Roberts relief bonds, although all other counties receiving aid from the R. F. C. have done so. Butler-co, he declared, has only issued utility tax relief bonds.

MRS. RUFF'S RITES TUESDAY 10 A. M.

Funeral services for Mrs. Omietta Ruff, former resident of this city, who died in Lancaster hospital Saturday morning after an operation, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the F. E. Smith funeral home in Lancaster.

Auto Wrecks, Suicides, Shooting, Take Lives of Ohioans, Report Says.

Seven deaths resulted in Ohio over the week-end from automobile accidents, shootings and suicides, according to a survey made today by International News Service.

Two fatalities were reported at Toledo. Mrs. Sylvia Humberstone, 67, widow of Rev. George Humberstone, was run down while enroute to church, and was instantly killed. Carl L. Boehm, 64, railroad engineer, shot and killed himself due to worries over ill health.

When his automobile smashed into another car on the Alliance-Canton road, Kenneth Barnett, 32, was killed near Alliance.

Walking along a highway with his five-year-old son and a companion, Carl Hartman, 28, was fatally injured when struck by an auto near Wellington. The car was driven by H. F. Bussey of Pittsburgh.

A Baltimore & Ohio passenger train brought death to Charles Hartman, 63, of Springfield, when it struck his automobile at Reesville, near Wilmington.

Relatives discovered the suicide of George W. Richardson, 79, a widower, at Columbus, when he failed to make his regular appearance at the home of his daughter and son-in-law. He had killed himself with a revolver.

Ernest Beattie, who was run over by an automobile in Cleveland Saturday-night, died yesterday in a Cleveland hospital.

CLEARING HOUSE MEETING TONIGHT

Persons interested in the establishment of a Social Service Clearing House here should attend the meeting to be held this evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Several important questions will be discussed at the session which will be under the supervision of Frank A. Lynch, chairman of the committee appointed to make arrangements for the clearing house.

PLAN NO INCREASE IN DOG LICENSES

No increase in dog license fees will be made this year according to the County Commissioners in their meeting Monday when they voiced their opinion that "the dog tax is already high enough and to make it higher would only cause more delinquents."

Mrs. John Linton, Circleville R. F. D., reported to city police Saturday night that a basket of groceries had been stolen from her car while parked on E. Franklin-st.

APPROVAL OF FUND CHANGE IS EXPECTED

Commission Approves Resolution of Auditor for Poor Fund

$7,500 NOW SOUGHT

Money Taken From Auto License Fund

Approval of the State Relief commission for transfer of $7,500 from the Auto License and Gas Tax fund to the Poor relief fund was expected Monday after the Pickaway-co commissioners acted favorably on a resolution presented by Auditor Cliff M. White asking the allocation.

No protest was made when a hearing was conducted Monday at 10 a. m.

According to the resolution this step is necessary as the Poor Fund is already overdrawn in the amount of $675.55 and with other obligations arising every week it is necessary that some action be taken in order to tide over the fund and make up its deficits until the February distribution.

"GAS" FUND HUGE

Figures in the resolution show that at the present time the License Tax and Gasoline tax fund has a balance of $67,429.87, and that after the necessary obligations have been paid at the close of the year a balance of approximately $40,000 will still be left in the fund.

Commissioners John W. Hay, Marvin H. Dreisbach and Edgar W. Beatty in adopting the resolution said that it was necessary that this transfer be made in order to prevent the issuance of bonds to hold up the poor funds.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—A Butler-co delegation ran into a stone wall today when it came to Columbus to ask the state relief commission for help in borrowing $32,640.08 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"I don't see how the request can be granted," declared Major E. O. Braught, executive secretary of the commission.

Other counties have been required to make use of all local means of raising relief funds before appealing to the F. C. and Butler-co has not complied, said Braught.

A hearing scheduled for 10 a. m. was delayed until 2:30 p. m. when other more pressing conferences demanded attention of the commission.

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the commission, and his colleagues will be the final court in deciding the appeal.

Butler-co, Braught said, has refused to issue Pringle-Roberts relief bonds, although all other counties receiving aid from the R. F. C. have done so. Butler-co, he declared, has only issued utility tax relief bonds.

MRS. RUFF'S RITES TUESDAY 10 A. M.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ometta Ruff, former resident of this city, who died in Lancaster hospital Saturday morning after an operation, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the F. E. C. Smith funeral home in Lancaster.

Rev. E. S. Toensmeier of the First Presbyterian church, this city, will officiate with interment in Lancaster.

Mrs. Ralph McDill of S. Pickaway-st., underwent an appendicitis operation at White Cross hospital, Columbus, Monday. Dr. Carl Hoy was the surgeon.

SPARTANS VANQUISH 'CHAMP' GREEN BAY ELEVEN, 19 TO 0

Ohioans Certain of at Least Tie for Championship After Great Showing; Packer Team Made to Look Like Amateur Aggregation as Portsmouth Uses Only 11 Men; Great Crowd Watches

Eleven "iron men" dispensing postgraduate football under the cognomen of the Spartans of Portsmouth made the heretofore invincible Green Bay Packers resemble an amateur football team at Portsmouth Sunday and came through to a sparkling 19-0 victory.

The Spartans are certain of a tie in the National Professional league and may be returned the champions without a playoff.

The Chicago Bears have a chance to tie the gontalon chase next Sunday if they can defeat Green Bay at Chicago. If the Packers tie or win, the race is over as Portsmouth has completed its schedule with only one defeat. Plans for a play-off should Chicago win next Sunday's game have already been made, the contest to be played at Cincinnati, Dec. 18.

OFFENSE STOPPED

It was the general consensus of grid enthusiasts that the Packers looked like the weakest professional team to appear on the Ohio grid this season. Their much-vaunted Notre Dame offensive coached by Curley Lambeau, a student of the Rockne system, was stopped cold; their passing handled by Arnold Herber, dashing half-back, aided the Spartans more than it did the Packers; their kicking, reputedly the best in the country, worked with reverse English. The Packers may be a great football team but they looked anything but that Sunday.

Two football players on the Green Bay team impressed this writer more than any others; they were Clark Hinkle, fullback, freshman in pro football after winning high national honors at Bucknell college last year, and Lavie Dilweg, left end, an alumnus of Marquette university.

Hinkle did all the gaining the Green Bay team was able to account for and Dilweg refused to allow any yardage around his sector. Only once was Green Bay in Portsmouth territory and that was in the final period when Hinkle, from punt formation, ran around his right end for 20 yards to carry the ball just over the mid-field stripe.

PLAY DUMB FOOTBALL

To say the Packers played dumb football would be just about right. Even as early as the first period that team tossed passes from its own territory. Twice on fourth down in their own territory the Green Bay team tried to run the ball only to find a Portsmouth tackler blocking the path.

Portsmouth played through the entire contest without a substitution. Only once was time taken out for a Spartan athlete and that was in the final few minutes of play when Ace Gustowsky, crashing fullback, was hit hard in a smash at the line. He refused to leave the game, however.

It didn't take the Spartans long to get started. They received at the outset of the fray and after failing to gain in two thrusts at the line kicked. The ball was booted back and forth twice before Harry Ebbing, Portsmouth end from St. Mary's college, partially blocked Hinkle's punt. Presnell took the ball out of bounds on the Green Bay 45-yard mark. Gustowsky smashed the line twice for a first down and a pass was completed when Hinkle held McKalip, trying to catch the ball. The leather was taken to the 27-yard mark. Lumpkin leaped high into the air to take a pass from Presnell on the two yard mark and Presnell, all-American from Nebraska, smashed his right tackle for the touchdown. Clark dropped-kicked the goal.

SHORT PUNT HELPS

The second touchdown was scored after a Herber punt went almost straight up in the air. Gustowsky snatched it on the 25-yard mark. A pass, Gustowsky to Clark got five yards after a penalty of five against the Spartans and Clark wiggled his way through the Green Bay line and side-stepped the secondary defense to score. The wind blew Clark's dropkick wide of the poles.

Beautiful broken field running of Presnell with Lumpkin and Gustowsky blocking for him, led to the third goal. Presnell took Herber's punt on the Portsmouth 44-yard mark and returned to the Green Bay 28. A pass, Presnell to Clark, after two line plays, scored the touchdown. The pass and the reception was beautiful to behold.

Presnell's passing and Lumpkin's pretty blocking, played havoc with Green Bay all through the tilt. Presnell kept the ball low at all times because of the high wind which swept across the field. Clark's punting, despite the wind, was excellent. He booted the ball out of bounds within the Green Bay 10 yard line three times.

First downs for the team were even at five each while the Packers gained 120 yards through the line to the Spartans' 90. Each team punted nine times, Green Bay for an average of 29 yards and Portsmouth for 35 yards.

TEAM PLAY DECIDING

The team play of Portsmouth was outstanding. McKalip proved the best defensive lineman for the Ohioans smashing play after play directed at him. The entire Portsmouth line, outweighed considerably, refused to give ground before the onslaught of Green Bay's all-Americans.

Some will say Portsmouth had a wide advantage by choosing the officials for the encounter but if anything the Sparts received the worst of the officiating. Once, early in the third period, a 15 yard penalty cost what might have been a touchdown. Late in the game 15 yards more were taken from the Ohioans for unnecessary roughness, and several times five yards were taken away for off side play. Coach Patsy Clark of Portsmouth, had his team at its peak for this contest and today business in the Ohio river city was at a stand-still with football the topic of the day. The crowd, which filled every nook in the vicinity of the stadium, was estimated anywhere from 14,000 to 17,500, either figure is larger than any other crowd that ever saw a football game in this city.

The county's representative, who was elected to his second term in the assembly without opposition in November, discussed several other subjects in his conversation here.

TALKS OF SCHOOLS

"Ohio at the present time is seriously facing the problem of raising the revenue to keep our school system up to its present standard which is second to none in the nation. The educators of the state have raised the standard of education by legislation but they have neglected to have legislation move the schools higher in revenue raising. The solution is to re-arrange much of the school law; to prevent overlapping and duplication in the curriculum. If a county is so centralized that it can function properly without a county superintendent or a part time one it should do so. It is my idea to obliterate county and township lines for school purposes. This alone would cut out one half of the high school buildings and many of the grade school buildings."

WEST POINT, N. Y. Dec. 5.—Harry J. (Jumbo) Jablonsky, elected unanimously yesterday to captain the Army football team next season, is one of the "iron men" of the squad. Playing right guard this season, "Jumbo" seldom needed relief.

Jablonsky is 27 years old, weighs 150 pounds, is 5 feet 11 inches tall, and has a good record. He is an honor student. Another resident of St. Louis, Capt. William S. Stone, was voted manager of next year's squad.

CARDS TO SLASH

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—Drastic salary slashes for baseball players next year was recommended today by Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals, attending the minor league convention here.

"Any player getting a salary of $10,000 in 1923 will be an adulterated star," said Rickey.

Asked if this applied to the Cardinals, he replied that "when any club finishes in seventh place, it must be adulterated."

Regardless of what other clubs do, the Cardinals will cut salaries next season, Rickey declared.

"And I don't mean turn salaries. I mean slash them. I think $7,500 should be a big salary for baseball, or for any industry, in fact."

Tradition calls for appointment of committees to notify the President that Congress is ready for business and little else. But anxious to avoid a special session after March 4 if possible, the Democrats were going to try to jam as much of the program through as possible in twelve weeks, beginning today.

Tomorrow, President Hoover will deliver his last annual message on the state of the nation. The Congress will listen attentively to his recommendations, but the eyes of most of the membership will be looking beyond his proposals to those of his successor after the fourth of March.

On Wednesday, Mr. Hoover will transmit his budget. In it he will propose drastic reductions in federal expenditures for the next fiscal year, which incidentally is the first year of the new Roosevelt administration.

Thereafter, Congress will settle down to the session grind of acting four billion dollars worth or appropriation bills and whatever other legislation it can.

POWER RESTRICTED

But in the three months of life to this Congress, it is not likely that even an approach can be made of these problems. They must, of necessity, go over until after March 4th, when a new Congress, overwhelmingly Democratic in both branches, comes into power.

This fact, plus the magnitude of the problems to be dealt with, is expected to accelerate the ratification of the Norris constitutional amendment which will do away with future Lame-Duck sessions. Seventeen states have already ratified the Norris amendment. Probably becoming operative next year, it will permit a new Congress to take office in the January following the November election, thus ending the farce of re-putated legislators controlling legislation long after their defeat at the polls.

The senate that met today is still in nominal control of the Republicans—yet almost every Republican leader of consequence is a "Lame-Duck"—Watson of Indiana, Moses of New Hampshire, Smoot of Utah, Bingham of Connecticut, etc.

Unable to find a hall where they could hold a meeting to select delegations to call on the White House and the two houses of Congress with their demands for $50 for each unemployed worker, the leaders were arranging today for a large open air congress in the camp to complete their organization.

There was considerable "grouching" about the camp this morning notwithstanding that there was plenty of food for breakfast. There were sandwiches, hot coffee and some bacon, supplied by the organizers of the march, who have a commissary on upper 14th street.

The complaints were over the lack of housing and the utter lack of sanitary facilities.

Merry Makers and Pilot Die In Lake Erie; High Sea Delays Efforts

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Weather permitting, coastguard crews were to make another effort today to raise from Lake Erie the ill-fated plane which carried three merry-makers and their pilot to their deaths.

High seas and rain yesterday defeated efforts to bring wreckage into the Trenton, Mich., base of the coastguard, for closer examination. Officials believe another body may be hidden in the tangled fuselage.

The body recovered late Saturday shortly before the storm broke, was identified as that of Marcella Kopitsky, 17, of Pukitawney, Pa., who had been living with her relatives.

The missing are Katherine Sisco, 29, aunt of Marcella, of Detroit; Patrick N. Toohy, 36, veteran Detroit pilot, and Thomas Neal Brown, wealthy Detroit and Florida sportsman and owner of the plane.

He has promised to wire The Herald Tuesday to let everyone know the exact time for his visit. Interesting details concerning Santa Claus's visit will be published Tuesday.

Fawn Upsets Hunter, Prevents Buck Death

MENOMINEE, Mich.—Clarence Seiman, veteran hunter, vouches for this one.

Seiman, poised to shoot a large buck which had halted a hundred yards away, was suddenly and violently upset from behind. Posing himself up angrily, his gun ready for action, Seiman found a small fawn gazing, wide eyed and mystified, at him.

He wheeled about to fire at the buck but alas it was gone. A second later the wag of a small fawn tail and the twitch of hind legs showed him the rescuer had bounded off after the larger deer.

Mrs. Roosevelt "Sees It Through"

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President-elect, whose culinary ability helped raise a big and brawny family, knows just how to season the stew as she is shown preparing a meal for a group of unemployed at a New York charity kitchen recently. The future "First Lady" went about her job in a workmanlike manner, proving that she's just as much at home in the kitchen as she is in the drawing room.

tance of a quarter of a mile but was not seriously injured.

Unable to find a hall where they could hold a meeting to select delegations to call on the White House and the two houses of Congress with their demands for $50 for each unemployed worker, the leaders were arranging today for a large open air congress in the camp to complete their organization.

There was considerable "grouching" about the camp this morning notwithstanding that there was plenty of food for breakfast. There were sandwiches, hot coffee and some bacon, supplied by the organizers of the march, who have a commissary on upper 14th street.

The complaints were over the lack of housing and the utter lack of sanitary facilities.

Watchful police armed with riot guns and tear gas surrounded the camp on all sides. Only those were permitted to leave who convince the police they had business outside the camp.

END OF FAMOUS GROUP NOW LOOMS

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Continuance of the "Secret Six," the business men's crime-fighting organization, was debated today at a meeting of those who helped found the group three years ago.

Alexander Jamie, chief investigator, admitted the life of the "Secret Six" was threatened by lack of finances. Heretofore, he said, there has always been plenty of funds to carry on investigations.

Merry Makers and Pilot Die In Lake Erie; High Sea Delays Efforts

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Weather permitting, coastguard crews were to make another effort today to raise from Lake Erie the ill-fated plane which carried three merry-makers and their pilot to their deaths.

High seas and rain yesterday defeated efforts to bring wreckage into the Trenton, Mich., base of the coastguard, for closer examination. Officials believe another body may be hidden in the tangled fuselage.

The body recovered late Saturday shortly before the storm broke, was identified as that of Marcella Kophitsky, 17, of Punkutawney, Pa., who had been living with her relatives.

The missing are Katherine Siese, 29, aunt of Marcella, of Detroit; Patrick N. Toohy, 36, veteran Detroit pilot, and Thomas Neal Brown, wealthy Detroit and Florida sportsman and owner of the plane.

LETTER TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Circleville Herald.

Dear Sir:

In order to dispel the impression that the city of Circleville has been ordered to install a sewage disposal plant and that council is following the orders of the State Board of Health the following letters are offered as explanations which will eliminate any doubt in the matter:

317 S. Pickaway-st.
Circleville, Ohio
November 23, 1923

Dr. H. G. Southard, Director of Health Dept. of Health, State of Ohio, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

Will you please answer the following questions relative to the sewage situation at Circleville?

1. Did the State Board of Health ever recommend to the city Council of Circleville that Circleville install an activated sludge type of sewage disposal plant?

2. Can the State of Health recommend any system or process of sewage disposal to the city of Circleville?

3. Has the State Board of Health ever ordered Circleville to cease dumping untreated domestic sewage and industrial wastes into the Scioto River?

4. Will the State Board of Health order Circleville to cease polluting the Scioto River before Columbus has satisfactorily solved the same pollution problem?

5. Would you or a representative of your office be willing to come to Circleville and answer the above questions in a court proceeding?

6. In your opinion how long will it be before Columbus constructs adequate sewage disposal works and has them in operation?

I will appreciate a prompt answer to these questions as I hope to present them to city council next Wednesday.

Respectfully yours,
H. SCOTT EAGLESON

Mr. H. Scott Eagleson
317 S. Pickaway-st.
Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

I have for acknowledgment your letter of November 23 in which you inquire concerning the sewage situation at Circleville, listing your inquiries. For your convenience I would reply in the same order your inquiries are listed.

1. The State Department of Health did NOT recommend to the city Council of Circleville that Circleville install an activated sludge type of sewage treatment plant.

2. The State Department of Health will not recommend any system or process of sewage treatment to the city of Circleville or any other municipality.

3. The State Department of Health has not ordered Circleville to cease the discharge of untreated domestic sewage and industrial wastes into the Scioto River.

4. The statutes set forth the procedure whereby the State Department of Health orders municipalities to correct stream pollution due to the discharge of sewage. A formal complaint must be made in accordance with Section 1249 of the General Code. Following receipt of the formal complaint a finding to that effect is made by the Director of Health. Subsequent to the finding a hearing is held before the Public Health Council and that body determines whether or not an order of the State Department of Health shall be issued. No formal complaint with reference to the sewage from Circleville HAS EVER been made. It is obvious that it would be impossible for me to state what action the Public Health Council might take should the issue ever be raised.

5. We would have no objection to calling a representative of this department to testify in any court proceeding at Circleville to state the FACTS with reference to sewage disposal at Circleville.

6. I am unable to answer your question with reference to the date of the completion of adequate sewage treatment works at Columbus.

I trust the above gives you the information you desire.

Yours truly,
H. G. SOUTHARD M. D.
Director of Health

The answer to question number three brings us back to our major contention—that it is wholly unnecessary to install a sewage disposal plant at Circleville until Columbus has cleaned up the river.

If Dr. H. G. Southard, Director of Health of the State of Ohio, is unable to express an opinion as to the time when the city of Columbus will have erected a sewage disposal system it would certainly be an unwise policy for council to spend $23,000 of the taxpayers' money for the erection of a disposal plant at this time.

From the figures available it is estimated that the operation of this plant will cost every household connected to the sewers at least $10 per year. How can council justify this unnecessary burden?

Modification Blocs
WHEN congress takes up the question of modification of the volstead act preliminary to the longer process of prohibition repeal the wine bloc will not want to be ignored or put off. It is just as anxious for the legalization of light wines as the beer bloc is for the legal sale of beer and will argue quite as vigorously that the mandate of the last election includes wine.

But the fact remains that it will be easier to bring up to 4 per cent beer under the constitutional classification of non-intoxicating beverages than to get wine with a content as low as 12 per cent under the wire. That would be asking a little too much liberality of the supreme court even though it has ruled that congress has the right to define what is intoxicating and what is not.

Log-rolling is inevitable. The wine bloc will go along with the beer bloc if assured of reciprocity. The price other congressmen will ask for their votes will be accord with their pet scheme of control. Even the beer bloc is divided on the question of percentage of alcoholic content, opinions and convictions ranging all the way from 2-12 per cent to the sky's the limit.

If the country can get together on these sub-issues of the principal issue without the usual congressional bombast and delay it will be as greatly surprised as the liquor interests were when prohibition was put over.

Luring Rail Passengers
VOLUNTARILY, for the purpose of filling empty seats, the railroads, while adhering to basic rates for general travel, have been offering special price inducements to travel. Passenger traffic has been attracted by low tourist rates, week-end and round-trip tickets, long-distance ride bargains and monthly tickets for frequent travelers not in the commuter class.

So the railroads may look with favor upon the suggestion of the Interstate Commerce Commission that passenger fare reduction might be profitable today. It must not be overlooked that since the war railroad management has abolished many wasteful and extravagant practices. The railroads no longer spend money like drunken sailors.

Before the roads reach a decision they must go into the possibility of luring back with lower rates a large part of the business that has been lost to buses and motor cars and whether they can make money on passengers provided the volume is great enough. There would be no percentage in carrying more passengers for less if the greater volume promised nothing in the way of profits or diminishing deficits.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

Pat had ceased entirely to think of her own problem. She and Dad would go to Jacksonville. She didn't care to think any further than that. She'd know by that time what she was going to do. It was the way of her mind to lie fallow, apparently in abeyance for a time, then sharply to unroll the pattern of its subconscious workings, complete to the last detail, clear and unalterable.

The pattern unrolled between the high diving board and the water. With the water coming up to meet her, she made her decision. Settled the entire question.

She swam to the top, climbed out and went to her locker, put on her traveling clothes. Their trunks were already at the station. She dressed hurriedly, her mind entirely cleared of the debris of battle. Indecision gone. A perfectly simple plan. . . Obviously the only possible decision.

My heavens! Why didn't I think of that in the first place? As Dad says, indecision is a devil of the mind. Decide—and the whole thing clears up. And, of course there's never anything to decide because there's only one right way. I knew what was right. I'd have saved myself a good deal of agony if I hadn't battled. I'd probably have thought right away of this.

Her father was sitting on the veranda. She went to him with a little skipping walk.

"Mr. Braithwait, sir," she said, "I'm sailing for Paris on the Majestic for the fourteenth and I'm looking for a gentleman companion—refined, gentle nature, good character—would you like to come along?"

"You pay all expenses?" he asked calmly, eyes twinkling.

"All expenses. But I require references."

"May I refer you to Miss Patricia Braithwait, in whose service I have been for twenty years?"

Their first battle had ended in their accustomed banter.

Several mothers seated on the veranda listened smilingly to the flippant conversation, having their opinion, however, of a girl who ordered her father to Paris thuswise.

Patricia went in and wrote a note to Jimmie, addressing it to The Flamingo. She was going to Paris, she told him. But as soon as Aunt Pam got her divorce he was to come for her.

She explained about the money question, adding, "Of course when I'm your wife he can't object to my taking your money, nor can he refuse to keep his own."

She felt a perfect fool that she hadn't thought of this in the first place.

Dad came to say it was near train time.

The station being separated from the hotel only by its own magnificent grounds, guests stroll down to the afternoon train to see if any friends from Miami are on their way north. The platform was crowded. Patricia's crowd was there. And Pamela, lovely, indolent, smiling. Everybody was asking about Jack Laurence.

The train pulled in—and Jack stepped off.

He was immaculate; but a dark bruise decorated one eye. He had an ugly cut on the chin and one jaw was noticeably enlarged. But he looked happy—with the happiness of long gone ancestors, which even Patricia's departure could not dim.

The younger crowd fell upon him. Demanding to know what had happened.

"I was out in a car with a chap in Miami," he grinned. "We had a little accident. Nothing much."

"Wasn't the other man hurt?"

"Some. But he'll recover."

Patricia was mad. She was mad at Jack for hurting Jimmie. Also, she was mad at Jimmie because

"Mr. Braithwait, sir," Pat said, "I'm sailing for Paris on the fourteenth—would you like to come along?"

Jack had hurt him. But she couldn't help smiling. To be revenged, however, she did not confide her change of plans to him till she was on the train.

"Maybe we'll see you in Paris, Jack," she called from the car window. "Dadums and I are sailing on the fourteenth."

All at once, his face looked like a battered lighthouse. Patricia fell to laughing.

"Pronto," he called.

The train was moving. Everybody waving.

Almost beside Aunt Pam and Jack stood Mrs. Brownley, a picture in sand. Patricia's gaze traveled from Jack's happy battered countenance to the face of the woman, serene and smiling; on to the charming dark beauty of Aunt Pam.

The train was gathering speed. Patricia strained to see them. Jack was no longer looking. His dark head was down to Mrs. Brownley as if he were speaking to her. A sharp premonitory flash, an inexplicable uneasiness assailed the excited girl—to be dramatically recollected a year later.

"Countess, will you open the door, please," said Patricia to an oldish woman in young attire and much paint who sat near the door. "It's probably Jack."

The Countess, an American ex-wife of a Russian Count, rose from the floor with as much exuberance as was permitted by her four feet two of one hundred and fifty pounds (in spite of meals restrained by finances).

"Hello, Jack!" they called in the chorus of an established entente cordiale.

"Come get a cup of tea," said Patricia. "The biscuits are all gone."

"No thanks. Too near dinner time. I came to carry you off to the Cafe Madrid for dinner. It's a perfect night for dinner in the open."

"Hear the words of the filthy rich," groaned Pendleton, correspondent for the Herald.

They demanded to know if Jack had ever eaten dinner at the Cafe Madrid. Had he just robbed a bank or what.

"I'll have to chance my dress if we are going to the Madrid," Patricia said. "Don't go, anybody. Stay as long as you like, and slam the door as you go out."

Some two months after the es-establishment of the Braithwaits in Montparnasse they had produced Jack Laurence. And the Quarter had accepted him after its casual fashion. Of course, they all knew his story through the papers, and they knew he was the scion of a rich family. Why he was living modestly in Montparnasse they did not know. Nor care. He could always lend a few francs and never bothered to ask it back; but he affected no swank, and they liked him. Supposedly extending his studies in architecture, he was also devoting a good deal of time to Patricia Braithwait. Many believed there was more to the affair than appeared on the surface.

"Let's all chip in and get some stuff from the delicatessen and have dinner here," suggested the Countess brightly. "I'll make fresh tea."

The suggestion was hailed enthusiastically, and it being agreed that everybody chip in five francs, Pendleton passed the hat. It developed that the Countess had left her money in her other purse, and Jack put in five francs for her. The Countess went with Pendleton to purchase supplies.

Patricia returned in a bouffant frock of turquoise lace and a silver cloth cap. They exclaimed loudly at sight of her.

With the careless informality which is "good form" in the Quarter, Patricia left her guests to their own devices, imposing only two injunctions. . . Be sure to slam the door. . . and don't drop salami or liverwurst on my lovely rose rug. . . Give Dadums some tea when he comes in and tell him to go on to dinner.

It was amazing how easily and quickly she had slid from the life of the luxurious lotus eaters of Palm Beach's fashionable colony into the life of those tattered lotus eaters of Montparnasse.

In the Quarter a tiny seed of friendship is dropped between the tables of The Dome, in an exchange of smiles over the rugman, or the beadwoman, or a sidewalk performer; the seed springs up in words, and reaches full flowers before the stars have closed their eyes on the sidewalk cafes. Tomorrow evening—well, perhaps one more—and one knows not only the luminaries of Montparnasse, but many whose fame has never percolated beyond.

Don't Be Careless About The Health of Your Eyes

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

GLAUCOMA is fortunately a rather uncommon although a serious eye disease of middle age. I am telling you about it because several of my readers have written about it. They ask whether the eye is incurable.

The cure is possible only when the disease is recognized in its early stages and properly treated. Unhappily the disease is too often overlooked in the early stages. The cure is likely to be lost when the patient seeks relief after great damage has been done and cure has become impossible.

We are too careless about the health of our eyes. No other organ of the body is more abused and more neglected than the eye.

Symptoms of Glaucoma
Glaucoma should be suspected in persons beyond forty, who have impaired vision and complain of persistent eyache and headache. The first symptom is a dimness of vision which the afflicted one believes is due to improper glasses. He thinks there is nothing wrong except eyestrain.

The exact cause of glaucoma has not been determined. There is some disturbance of the mechanism of the eye. In consequence, the pressure within the eyeball is more and more increased. When this pressure is continued long enough, the optic nerve is injured. This damage to the nerve results in impaired vision.

In the early stages of glaucoma, "spots before the eyes" may be a symptom. When looking at a light, a rainbow-like halo is seen around the light. Headache and a feeling of dullness in the afflicted eye are other signs of early glaucoma.

The distress may wear off, but the symptoms return. In some cases the vision is poor in the morning and improves during the day. As the first attack subsides the vision returns and is normal, perhaps for months.

A Cause of Blindness
Acute glaucoma, a form which develops suddenly, is marked by pain in the affected eye. This pain is severe, at times almost unbearable. It may radiate over the head, to the ears and teeth, and is sometimes mistaken for "neuralgia pain."

If you have any discomfort of the eyes and particularly a disturbance of vision consult with your physician. Immediate and intelligent care is imperative if vision is to be saved. I want to speak so strongly about the dangers attached to negligence of the eyes. Fifteen per cent of all blindness in this country can be traced to glaucoma. Many of these sad results could have been prevented by early and modern methods of treatment.

Care of the teeth and tonsils, early treatment of digestive disorders, and looking after the general health are factors we cannot afford to overlook. But certainly when the eyes begin to bother we should find out at once what is wrong.

URGES HOT DISHES FOR SCHOOL CHILD

Specialist Outlines Food Needs of School Children Away From Home.

Although an occasional cold lunch may not seriously influence the health of school youngsters, cold lunches for 180 to 200 days of the year do not make for healthy bodies in growing children, declares Lelia Ogle, nutrition specialist for the agricultural extension service at the Ohio State University.

There are important foods that should be included every day in the school child's food. Such foods are a quart of milk in food and drink, two good servings of vegetables in addition to potatoes, a bread or cereal of whole grain, fruit at least once every day, and an egg a day with some meat or fish of cheese at another meal.

These food requirements place a heavy responsibility on the person in charge of the child's good as well as possibly overtaxing the child's capacity at the two meals served at home. Those who have to pack an entire lunch every day will find their work lighter when only foods needed to supplement a hot nutritious dish are packed at home. In addition, the well prepared warm dish of food acts as a stimulus to appetite and promotes digestion.

The warm dishes prepared in the school, Miss Ogle asserts, should be nourishing and supplement foods eaten at home. The dish should be easily prepared and served, and should be as inexpensive as possible. Usually the dish will be a vegetable soup or stew, a creamed or scalloped vegetable, or a whole grain cereal and vegetable combination with sandwich, or possibly a crisp raw vegetable, or fruit in a dessert brought from home. Occasionally the hot dish may be a milk drink, either hot milk, cocoa, or postum. On days when the hot dish is not a drink or a cream soup, each child should have a cup of milk.

Modification Blocs

WHEN congress takes up the question of modification of the Volstead act preliminary to the longer process of prohibition repeal the wine bloc will not want to be ignored or put off. It is just as anxious for the legalization of light wines as the beer bloc is for the legal sale of beer and will argue quite as vigorously that the mandate of the last election includes wine.

Perhaps a politician just keeps his ear on the ground to hear the dirt.

VANITIES TO SHOW
AT CLIFTONA HERE

Widespread interest is being shown in the forthcoming engagement of the California stage show, "Sunkist Vanities," booked for a two day showing at the Cliftona Theatre commencing Wednesday.

"Sunkist Vanities" is claimed to be one of the snappiest units ever produced in Los Angeles. Every member is an outstanding, versatile artist, especially selected for this production from a list of over 500 acts.

Featured throughout the show is the "One Man Circus." Harry Berry, whose comedy keeps the show moving at a fast pace. Berry sings, dances, juggles, tumbles, plays several musical instruments in his inimitable comedy manner, and his comedy "Bottle-sitting" stunt is hot. The three Musical Misses, the Melody Trio, offer a wide variety of special songs and music. Rosita & Perez, International dancing stars, fling their heels so fast and well that it makes you dizzy to follow.

Their feature number, an "Indian Adagio," was produced after considerable study of authentic Indian dances and costumes worn by various Western tribes during their pow wows. Miss Theo Keith is a musician of rare ability, playing violin, saxophone, clarinet, cornet, and numerous other instruments, featuring her own idea of a "One Girl Band." Her encore number with Harry Berry, wherein they offer popular songs with sax accompaniment, is a show stopper.

Do Your Christmas Giving Early—and Often!

Don't Be Careless About
The Health of Your Eyes

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

GLAUCOMA is fortunately a rather uncommon, although a serious eye disease of middle age. I am telling you about it because several of my readers have written about it. They ask whether the ailment is curable.

Cure is possible only when the disease is recognized in its early stages and properly treated. Unhappily the disease is too often overlooked in the curable stages. The sufferer is likely to seek relief after great damage has been done and cure has become impossible.

We are too careless about the health of our eyes. No other organ of the body is more abused and more neglected than the eye.

Symptoms of Glaucoma

Glaucoma should be suspected in persons beyond forty who have impaired vision and complain of persistent eyache and headache. The first symptom is a dimness of vision which the afflicted one believes is due to improper glasses. He thinks there is nothing wrong except eyestrain.

The exact cause of glaucoma has not been determined. There is some disturbance of the mechanism of the eye. In consequence, the pressure within the eyeball is more and more increased. When this pressure is continued long enough, the optic nerve is injured. This damage to the nerve results in impaired vision.

In the early stages of glaucoma "spots before the eyes," may be a symptom. When looking at a light a rainbow-like halo is seen around the light. Headache and a feeling of dullness in the afflicted eye are other signs of early glaucoma.

The distress may wear off, but the symptoms return. In some cases the vision is poor in the morning and improves during the day. As the first attack subsides, the vision returns and is normal, perhaps for months.

A Cause of Blindness

Acute glaucoma, a form which develops suddenly, is marked by pain in the affected eye. This pain is severe, at times almost unbearable. It may radiate over the head, to the ears and teeth and is sometimes mistaken for "neuralgia pain."

If you have any discomfort of the eyes and particularly a disturbance of vision, consult with your physician. Immediate and intelligent care is imperative. If vision is to be saved I cannot speak too strongly about the dangers attached to negligence of the eyes. Fifteen per cent of all blindness in this country can be traced to glaucoma. Many of these sad results could have been prevented by early and modern methods of treatment.

Care of the teeth and tonsils, early treatment of digestive disorders, and looking after the general health, are factors we cannot afford to overlook. But certainly when the eyes begin to bother we should find out at once what is wrong.

The use of new-born babies in motion pictures is governed by more rules and regulations than a football game. Though they are used from time to time by the various Hollywood studios, each time present a problem crews.

First National holds the record for casting directors and production the number of babies used in a picture by using 18 of the youngsters for their maternity ward picture, "Life Begins," which is at the Cliftona Theatre today and

URGES HOT DISHES
FOR SCHOOL CHILD

Specialist Outlines Food Needs of School Children Away From Home.

Although an occasional cold lunch may not seriously influence the health of school youngsters, cold lunches for 180 to 200 days of the year do not make for healthy bodies in growing children, declares Lelia Ogle, nutrition specialist for the agricultural extension service at the Ohio State University.

There are important foods that should be included every day in the school child's food. Such foods are a quart of milk in food and drink; two good servings of vegetables in addition to potatoes, a bread or cereal of whole grain, fruit at least once every day, and an egg a day with some meat or fish of cheese at another meal.

These food requirements place a heavy responsibility on the person in charge of the child's good as well as possibly overtaxing the child's capacity at the two meals served at home. Those who have to pack an entire lunch every day will find their work lighter when only foods needed to supplement a hot nutritious dish are packed at home. In addition, the well prepared warm dish of food acts as a stimulus to appetite and promotes digestion.

The warm dishes prepared in the school, Miss Ogle asserts, should be nourishing and supplement foods eaten at home. The dish should be easily prepared and served, and should be as inexpensive as possible. Usually the dish will be a vegetable soup or stew, a creamed or scalloped vegetable, or a whole grain cereal and vegetable combination with sandwich, or possibly a crisp raw vegetable, or fruit in a dessert brought from home. Occasionally the hot dish may be a milk drink, either hot milk, cocoa, or postum. On days when the hot dish is not a drink or a cream soup, each child should have a cup of milk.

Edwin S. Rutledge, Editor of The Kenton (Ohio) News-Republican, says:

"Mr. Merchant, the newspapers from the larger cities near your community are coming into the homes of your own customers these days with advertising columns bursting with announcements of real values.

"They are drawing the dollars out of the pockets of the people who should be purchasing from you.

"These city merchants know their advertisement in their city newspaper will bring results or they wouldn't be spending good-hard-earned money for that advertising.

"Your own values are just as outstanding—and even more so—than the values being offered your customers by the city merchants. "If you are to get the dollars that are rightfully yours, you will have to inform your customers of this fact in big, bold headlines in your home town newspaper, and then back those headlines up with the price tags on your merchandise.

"If you will go to your home town newspaper advertising man he will help you with your advertising problems and make your advertising just as appealing to your customers as the 'big city' advertising is.

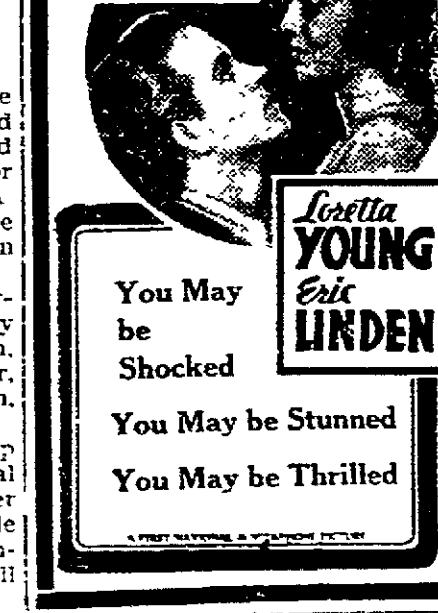

"Local advertising has the jump on advertising that comes in from the outside, but you, Mr. Merchant, have to keep that lead by properly utilizing the home town newspaper columns consistently and with careful attention to the preparing of copy."

Two Southwest states claim to have produced the biggest nut. Louisiana should challenge the winner.

With most early terminal quotations reporting a 5 to 15 cent lower market on most grade hogs, bidding was weak on all but lighter weights. This pressure will no doubt continue until packers are able to empty their coolers after the temporary poultry and game season. Cattle and veal prices were good at Chillicothe with most of the stock going to commission buyers for eastern terminal destinations.

Novelist's Son and Accuser

Anton Tully (right), 21-year-old son of Jim Tully, the "hobo novelist," is shown in court at Los Angeles as he listened to the testimony of Miss Frances Charbonneau (left), who accused him of attacking her. According to the girl's testimony, she had known Tully for several months, and on the night of the alleged attack he induced her to go motoring with him.

John Barrymore's latest role is as a member of the standing army, is our guess. His uniform is so tight he can't sit down in it.

THIS CHRISTMAS I'D LIKE AN ELECTRIC WASHER

if it's a Maytag

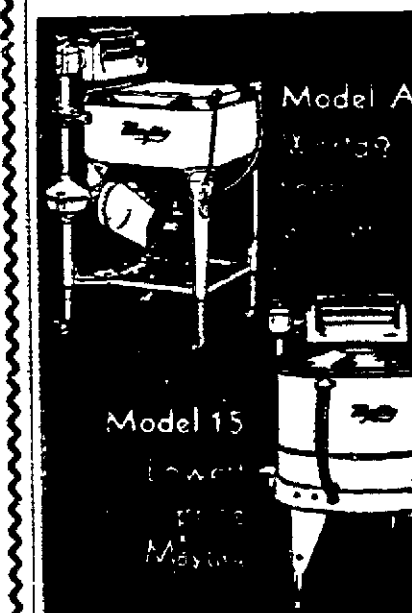

"I never even thought of home washing before. But I've seen how easy it is to wash in a Maytag. And it seems silly to pay someone else to do such light work."

But don't confuse "buying a washer" with investing in a Maytag. A Maytag washes clothes cleaner... faster... with less work... less wear and tear on clothes... less cost per washing... and keeps on doing that for more years. It represents a permanent investment in household equipment and in actual dollars and cents savings.

Certainly a washer is an appropriate gift—if it's a Maytag. Come in and let us demonstrate and talk terms.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
by Edson R. White
Shawnee, Okla.

Edwin S. Rutledge, Editor of The Kenton (Ohio) News-Republican, says:

"Mr. Merchant, the newspapers from the larger cities near your community are coming into the homes of your own customers these days with advertising columns bursting with announcements of real values.

"They are drawing the dollars out of the pockets of the people who should be purchasing from you.

"These city merchants know their advertisement in their city newspaper will bring results or they wouldn't be spending good-hard-earned money for that advertising.

"Your own values are just as outstanding—and even more so—than the values being offered your customers by the city merchants.

"If you are to get the dollars that are rightfully yours, you will have to inform your customers of this fact in big, bold headlines in your home town newspaper, and then back those headlines up with the price tags on your merchandise.

"If you will go to your home town newspaper advertising man he will help you with your advertising problems and make your advertising just as appealing to your customers as the 'big city' advertising is.

"Local advertising has the jump on advertising that comes from the outside, but you, Mr. Merchant, have to keep that lead by properly utilizing the home town newspaper columns consistently and with careful attention to the preparing of copy."

Two Southwest states claim to have produced the biggest nut. Louisiana should challenge the winner.

Novelist's Son and Accuser

Anton Tully (right), 21-year-old son of Jim Tully, the "hobo novelist," is shown in court at Los Angeles as he listened to the testimony of Miss Frances Charbonneau (left), who accused him of attacking her. According to the girl's testimony, she had known Tully for several months, and on the night of the alleged attack he induced her to go motoring with him.

Lambs, receipts 209; tops, 5.20; second, 4.20 to 5.10; light weights, 3.00 to 3.80; common, 2.00 to 3.00.

175 consignments were made to the Chillicothe market Friday totaling 2181 head of livestock. This is the largest amount of stock to pass through the Chillicothe yards at any one time. With most early terminal quotations reporting a 5 to 15 cent lower market on most grade hogs, bidding was weak on all but lighter weights. This pressure will no doubt continue until packers are able to empty their coolers after the temporary poultry and game season. Cattle and veal prices were good at Chillicothe with most of the stock going to commission buyers for eastern terminal destinations.

John Barrymore's latest role is as a member of the standing army, is our guess. His uniform is so tight he can't sit down in it.

THIS CHRISTMAS I'D LIKE AN ELECTRIC WASHER

if it's a Maytag

"I never even thought of home washing before. But I've seen how easy it is to wash in a Maytag. And it seems silly to pay someone else to do such light work."

But don't confuse "buying a washer" with investing in a Maytag. A Maytag washes clothes cleaner...faster...with less work...less wear and tear on clothes...less cost per washing...and keeps on doing that for more years. It represents a permanent investment in household equipment and in actual dollars and cents savings.

Certainly a washer is an appropriate gift—if it's a Maytag. Come in and let us demonstrate and talk terms.
